

Identity Verification Module

The Police Central Identity Verification Module utilizes the latest biometric technologies to verify for positive identification of incarcerated persons. This Module uses Facial Recognition technology or Single Fingerprint matching technology, or both. During the Intake process, the inmate has mugshot photographs and a single fingerprint captured. These become the “source” files. During movement of the inmate to court, reassigned housing or other activities, a new “current” mugshot or fingerprint may be captured and compared to the source files for confirmation.

Facial Recognition Verification Option

When a person is incarcerated, the Police Central Arrest & Booking Module permits any number of mugshot photographs to be attached to the Arrest Record. Requiring no special user efforts, the front Mugshot is made available for later facial recognition verifications. At any time, an additional contemporaneous Mugshot can be compared and validated to the original mugshot. Police Central will clearly flag “Good Match”, “Questionable Match” or “Bad Match” utilizing Visionics® Facial Recognition.

Single Fingerprint Verification Option

During the Intake process, a single fingerprint may be captured into the Police Central Arrest & Booking Module. Similar to Facial Recognition, at any time another fingerprint may be captured and compared to the original for validation. The “source” fingerprint may be captured with a single finger device at the Booking Station, or may be uploaded from commercial Livescan products. Fingerprint verification is accomplished by algorithms provided as part of the system.

Certainty of Verification and Audit Trail

Confirmed identity of incarcerated persons is increasingly important to assure that the correct person is being moved within a facility or released from custody. Police Central’s Inmate Verification Module together with its robust Arrest & Booking Module takes the guesswork out of identification. Utilizing both Face and Fingerprint verification Agencies can be assured of accurate identity of all inmates prior to release. And, Police Central maintains a complete audit trail of inmate movements, transports, and release activities for administrative purposes.
